Redcliffe House

Redcliffe House, our specialist autism residential home, is warm and welcoming, providing a comfortable place to live.

We have eight bedrooms and offer a variety of shared communal areas where individuals can spend quality time with family and friends.

We have a homely lounge for relaxation and entertainment, alongside a fully equipped kitchen and dining room, perfect for preparing and enjoying meals together. We also have a sensory room and a large garden - the ideal space for socialising and spending time outdoors.

Redcliffe House has excellent public transport links nearby, providing us easy access to the local town centre, wider Nottinghamshire, and places of interest further afield.

A place to call home

Our team is experienced in supporting people with a wide range of needs, including learning and physical disabilities, autism, Down's syndrome, epilepsy, mental health needs, and behaviours that may challenge.

We take a person-centred approach, meaning your support is truly tailored to you. You'll be supported to enjoy your favourite hobbies, or embrace new interests in a friendly environment. As a household, we enjoy playing bowls, bingo, going swimming, shopping, attending discos, visiting day centres, and going on holidays!

We'll empower you to develop everyday living skills, so you can maintain your independence and confidence, both at home and in the community.
